

A Water Policy Panel Presented by Golden Gate University School of Law and
Golden Gate University Environmental Law & Justice Clinic

DRAWDOWN?

The Differing Debates Over O'Shaughnessy and Glen Canyon Dams

Removing dams on the Tuolumne and Colorado Rivers offers the prospect of restoring historic fisheries and submerged river canyons, but may affect water storage, hydroelectric power and recreational boating. Learn about these policy issues from panelists working on the front-line.

Monday, March 28, 2005 @ 4:00-5:30 pm
Golden Gate University School of Law, Room No. 3208
536 Mission Street in San Francisco

Panelists:    SPRECK ROSEKRANS - Environmental Defense [Oakland, California]
                  DAVID WEGNER - Glen Canyon Institute [Durango, Colorado]

Moderator:   Paul Kibel - Adjunct Professor, GGU Law School; Director, Policy West;
                      Of Counsel, Fitzgerald Abbott & Beardsley

Co-sponsored by the Natural Resources Subsection of the Real Property Law Section of the State Bar of California

Space may be limited, so pre-registration is recommended. Admission is free.

RSVP to Fe Gonzalez at 415.442.6619 or fgonzalez@ggu.edu.

For other questions, contact Paul Kibel at 510.499.1649 / psk@policywest.net.